Eight of her crew of seventeen clung to a raft, which split in two pieces, separating the seamen. They suffered frightful agony from starvation and thirst. One of the two on the smaller portion of the raft was picked up two weeks later, and taken to Baltimore by the German steamer Colonia. Two survived the six on the other part and were picked up September 1 and taken to Charleston, S. C, by the British steamer Woodruff. Crazyed by hunger and thirst, they had a week before drawn lots, Fires.--A large barn and stable on the estate of former Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney, near Westburg, L. I., was destroyed by fire July 13. Several valuable horses were lost. The cause of the fire was not discovered. The village of Tupper Lake, N. Y., was almost entirely wiped out by fire, July 30....
